

Kamran Ayub, MD, MRCP

Kamran Ayub, MD, MRCP

*Director, Advanced Endoscopy Center, Silver Cross Hospital
Director, Clinical Research Center, Southwest Gastroenterology
Visiting Clinical Associate Professor, UIC
Medical Director, Oak Lawn Endoscopy*

*Consultant Gastroenterologist
Advocate Christ Medical Center
Advocate Good Samaritan Hospital
Silver Cross Hospital
Provena Saint Joseph Medical Center
Little Company of Mary Hospital*

Dr. Ayub completed his fellowship in Gastroenterology and Advanced Endoscopy at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, TX. Dr. Ayub is considered an expert in the field of endoscopic ultrasound, Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease, Barrett's Esophagus, and advanced endoscopy/ERCP. He has published numerous articles, abstracts and has spoken extensively at national and international meetings. Dr. Ayub has described new techniques of endoscopic ultrasound guided nerve blocks, and written a book chapter on this topic. He held an NIH Grant on Barrett's Esophagus from 2002 to 2008 and specializes in the management of High Grade Dysplasia. Dr. Ayub has served as Chief of Endoscopic Ultrasound at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, and has served as the Director of Advanced Endoscopy Fellowship at Virginia Mason Medical Center in Seattle, Washington. He values the importance of educating others on these topics and was awarded a teaching scholarship by the University of Washington from 2002-2003.

Dr. Ayub has a special interest in additional areas, including Sphincter of Oddi dysfunction, gastrointestinal oncology, pancreato-biliary disease, chronic abdominal pain, and endoscopic ultrasound-guided nerve blocks for patients with chronic pain.

Kamran Ayub, MD, MRCP

A note from Dr. Ayub regarding patients

“Honest communication, up-to-date knowledge, skillful use of technology, and compassion are all paramount to quality patient care.”

Medical Training:

- Medical School: Khyber Medical College, Peshawar, Pakistan, 1983
- Residency: Internal Medicine, Greater Baltimore Medical Center, MD, 1993-1995
- Chief Resident: Internal Medicine, Greater Baltimore Medical Center, MD, 1995-1996
- Fellowships: Gastroenterology, Baylor College of Medicine, TX, 1998
Advanced Endoscopy, Baylor College of Medicine, TX, 1999

Accomplishments:

- Held an NIH Grant on Barrett’s Esophagus from 2002 to 2008
- Awarded American College of Gastroenterology Clinical Research Award, 1999
- Won Baylor College of Medicine Clinical Research Award in 1998 and again in 2000
- Awarded University of Washington Teaching Scholarship 2002-2003
- Has numerous publications including journal articles, abstracts, and textbook chapters
- Speaks extensively at national and international meetings
- Described new techniques of endoscopic ultrasound-guided nerve blocks
- Served as Chief of Endoscopic Ultrasound at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston
- Served as the Director of Advanced Endoscopy Fellowship at Virginia Mason Medical Center in Seattle, Washington

Kamran Ayub, MD, MRCP

Advanced Procedures Dr. Ayub Offers:

- Endoscopic Retrograde Cholangiopancreatography (ERCP)
- Sphincter of Oddi Manometry
- Endoscopic Ultrasound and ultrasound-guided nerve blocks
- Double Balloon Enteroscopy, Spirus enteroscopy
- Intraductal Ultrasound and Catheter Probe Ultrasound
- Spyglass Cholangioscopy and Pancreatoscopy
- Bravo pH monitoring and manometry
- Endoscopic Mucosal Resection
- Radiofrequency Ablation of Barrett's Esophagus
- Transendoscopic Incisionless Fundoplication (TIF 2)
- Capsule Enteroscopy
- Ampullectomy
- Minor Papilla interventions
- Pancreatic Pseudocyst Drainage (Cystogastrostomy)

Special Areas of Interest:

- Barrett's Esophagus including High Grade Dysplasia
- Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease (GERD)
- Chronic Pancreatitis
- Pancreatic and Hepatobiliary disease
- Sphincter of Odi Dysfunction
- Chronic abdominal/pelvic pain and nerve blocks for pain management
- Gastrointestinal Oncology
- New technology development and technology assessment

To make an appointment, call

708-499-5678
9921 Southwest Highway
Oak Lawn, IL 60453

815-723-9278
1890 Silver Cross Boulevard
New Lenox, IL 60451